BUNDABERG CENTRAL MENS SHED ASSOCIATION INC

Generally men are reluctant to talk about health issues and the shed atmosphere encourages them to speak to other men about this topic. By encouraging this dialogue health issues which otherwise may have been hidden by the individual will be referred to a doctor.

There are a great many talents these men have and are more than willing to pass their skills on to others in the group or community. Machines such as saws, lathes, welders and many more are at the disposal of members. Training is provided on any machinery they wish to use.

Some members would rather have a chat and a cuppa than work on machinery, this is also encouraged as this gives them a reason to come along to the shed instead of falling into depression at home. Many of our members have lost their partners and live alone.

DEMENTIA AUSTRALIA

Younger Onset Dementia Key Worker Program

Younger onset dementia is a term used to describe the onset of symptoms of dementia before the age of 65. The National Younger Onset Dementia Key Worker Program provides individualised information and support to improve the quality of life for people with younger onset dementia. This program ensures that the needs of people with younger onset dementia are being met in the community by increasing awareness and education, building capacity in the disability aged care, community and residential care sectors and improving coordination of services across agencies. To be eligible for the program, a person must be under the age of 65 when they first make contact with the service or enter the program. This applies to a person who has been diagnosed with younger onset dementia (all forms of), or a person who is undergoing neurological testing for symptoms of dementia. Dementia Australia is also able to support people living with younger onset dementia to apply for and access the National Disability Insurance Scheme. Once a participant of the scheme, Dementia Australia can offer Support Coordination services.

- Homeless
- Living in unstable, temporary or inadequate housing

The YHARS program assists the transition into independent living by helping maintain and improve connections between young people, their community, culture and their family by:

- Developing knowledge and skills that foster independent living.
- Providing a supportive, case managed environment that focuses on attitudes and the core values of respect, safety and positive self-esteem; therefore enabling young people to complete their bail or supervised release orders with less chance of reoffending.
- Helping to maintain or improve access to education, training or employment opportunities.
